The Minutes of past Policy Committee meetings were voted on an approved unanimously (Moved by Ms. Bogue and Seconded by Mr. Flick).

Public Comment: Report from Athens Sports Hall of Fame (Charles Turner and James Fair) to propose a permanent display honoring inductees. Building & Grounds Committee and Policy Committee will discuss and bring a report to next meeting.

Staff Report:

A staff report was given by Assistant Director for Public Services Trudi Green on the Affordable Care Act and how librarians have been trained to know the point up to which they may inform patrons of its intricacies and refer them to local organizations for advice.

Ms. Simonds gave a staff report on the ACCL Endowment Fund as there is currently no Chair. She reported that the fund has raised almost $100,000.00 in donations for the Appleton Auditorium. Also, she reported that the corpus of the fund is over 1 million dollars at present and is held and managed by Joe Frierson and Merrill Lynch. Mr. Eberhard asked for a full account of the investments held. Ms. Bogue reported that the Endowment's Finance Committee will meet and determine the next course of action for the Endowment.

Financial Report:

Ms. Simonds reported that we are ending our 1st quarter FY14 reporting period. We should be at around 25% per budget. On the ACCL revenues, we are at 24.34% and on the expenditure side we are at 21.89%. The meeting room fees are doing well, and she predicts that we will make over the budgeted $1,950 this year. On the expenditure side, the water bill was extremely high due to a leak that was discovered and since been fixed. Ms. Simonds reported that she has sent July- September bills to Keith Sanders at the SPLOST office for reimbursement. Ms. Simonds also reported on the structure of the ACCL chart of accounts and how each segment in the account structure allows ACCL to separate out expenditures and revenues by funding source, ARLS county and facility

Committee Reports

Notable Comments

- We love our library and have been coming for 10 years.
- This library is very resourceful with materials that meet the needs of my children at home and of my children in my classroom as a teacher. Thank you for doing a great job.
- I love this library. Keep up the good work and thank you for being a great resource for our community.
- Everyone is always so friendly and helpful. I've been coming for 8 years out of the 13 years I've been in Athens. The first few were mostly on campus. My family and I love coming here and have made many friends, both in the community at programs, and with the librarians themselves.
- I am impressed with the new library. Since I have a computer and wireless Internet at home, my visits to the library are infrequent. But I do enjoy the library and its resources. Thanks!!
- You guys are great! I wish I had used you more while I was at UGA.
- The staff at the library is always helpful. The programs and book clubs are really beneficial to the community.
- The library is great, but I'd like to see more programs and more of a focus on availability of eBooks, in particular. CDs could also stand to be improved (both quality and quantity), but not as high of a priority. There should really be a significant branch in downtown Athens.
- I love the library and I think, except for not opening early enough on Sundays, you do a great job. Thank you for all of your hard work to create such a pleasant and stimulating environment for all of us!
- You do a wonderful job with your limited resources. The staff are always helpful. I like your new automated/checkout systems!
- I would like to see movie time come back because many people came to the movie time;
 it gathered the whole community to do something that was positive.
- I would love to be able to not have to wait to receive books that I want from other libraries.
- The library is a safe, friendly and warm haven for homeless people like myself. The Internet helps me to apply for jobs and other resources. I am thankful for the library!
- Love it! Love the technology, the selection. Have loved it since I was a child!
- Best library around. We drive 20 25 miles to come here several times a week.
- I moved to A-CC largely because of this fine institution.
- It's a complete, functioning library. All libraries should be this good.
- It is my hope that services at this branch are not tampered with because of budget constraints. This library is a JEWEL in the community!
- · We are fortunate to have such a fine institution.
- Parking is awkward for us who have trouble walking but don't have a handicapped sticker.
- The Athens Clarke County Library in my opinion is an outstanding library system.
- The Internet is awesome. The amount of available computers is great. Whoever designed this was very thoughtful of the public needs.
- Think it's a great place to chill & relax!

Director's Report January 14, 2014

Disability Awareness. The State Library informed us in December of their intention to consolidate the state's 9 talking book center libraries into 4 centers, although a firm date was not available. This likely means our TBC/Outreach Center will be closed and I'm guessing by July 2015. All activity will be moved to Augusta and Atlanta.

I am actively opposing this move. One of the keys to this service is the personal one-to-one connection our staff has with talking book users. We also believe that we provide far better service than either location and are more centrally located to serve all of Northeast Georgia.

To further emphasize our services, I have been working with several disabled library users to develop a training program. The focus is to make library services accessible to everyone, not just the blind and physically disabled. We meet many people over the course of the year who have various disabilities and who need accommodation.

There are several goals in the proposal:

- 1. Establish an Americans with Disabilities coordinator for the library who will survey facilities, look at our web page for accessibility, order AV materials including captioned videos, coordinate software and equipment, and many other tasks.
- 2. Offer staff training to all to help recognize when accommodation is needed, the psychology of the disabled, and so on. The curriculum is a major element, and we have several adult education specialists who have volunteered to help with this.
- 3. Change attitudes about disabilities within the community.
- 4. Create public service announcements featuring "libraries are for everyone."
- 5. Share information gained with other Georgia libraries and public service organizations.

We began by shooting our first PSA on Friday evening. Several people have donated their services or are working at very reduced rates including a marketing firm executive, the videographer, illustrator/animator, make-up artist, director and others. You will be seeing a final edit soon!

Varsity Hot Dog Day. This annual event will be held on January 27 at the Capitol. All legislators have been invited to attend by the Georgia Council of Public Libraries [our lobbying arm]. Traditionally, this has been a well-attended affair and we can expect most of our legislators to stop by to say hello, even if they have other events to attend. Last year, we were able to obtain $2 million statewide for computer replacements on this day following a casual conversation with Senator Cowsert. We are told this will be an expedited session with most attention focused on the budget. Our issues are as follows:

- Georgia Public Library Service, in response to budget reductions, has recommended that our book/materials budget go to zero. The budget in 2008 was briefly 65 cents per capita and then began falling dramatically.
 We would like to see funds restored to the minimum level of 35 cents per capita and of course to improve each year thereafter.
- Retain the Major Repair and Renovation grant funds that provide a 50-50 match for repair of buildings within the region. MRR funds will allow Winterville to winterize their facility next year if funds are available, and to continue to replace aging parts of the original Athens Library. We also asked for funds to fix the steps and deck at Pinewoods.
- MRR-Computers. $2 million made a significant difference, but we need more to upgrade our equipment.
- Construction. While Athens has no projects on the construction list this year, we do want to be sure that if Oconee approves their SPLOST in 2014, construction funds are available.
- Finally, we know that Georgia Health Insurance and Teachers Retirement costs will continue to escalate. Our budget requests include funding increases for those "unfunded" mandates.

Please take time to contact your legislators. The contact sheet with all legislator addresses for our region is attached. A quick e-mail or phone call helps to raise awareness and right now, we need that!

Digital Divide. Throughout the region, we continue to be aware that the library provides one of the few sources of free internet access. While the price of computers has decreased, the cost of internet access continues to be a major cost for many. Over the holidays, I was in several establishments and heard that they greatly appreciate our libraries and the access we provide. Many libraries require a "clean" library card—no fines—in order to use their units. And to obtain a library card, there are barriers that we don't require. Our computers are full daily with people looking for jobs, creating resumes, applying for openings, searching databanks, taking sample tests to qualify for positions, and using e-mail. After Christmas, we saw many who had new e-readers seeking assistance in downloading materials. Wednesday, we will be interviewing two firms that responded to our RFP for improved broadband services across the region. This will allow us to improve speed and capacity. That is important to our users!

e-book Information. The Georgia Download Destination, our e-book consortium, appears to finally be headed towards resolution with the contract for e-book services. The initial proposal was for more than four times greater than our current level of membership. We are now looking at a slight increase, but it will be far more reasonable. This also means that our services will not be interrupted, we will continue to have access to a large collection of e-books, and we will not have to renegotiate for several years.

Public Art. The mural has been installed for some time and has generated many comments. One of the main questions had to do with the color. We believe that when Robert Clements' sculpture is installed, the colors will make more sense as they will harmonize. Marilyn Wolf-Raggatz tells me that installation is on schedule for mid-February, and that there will be some kind of event in early March to celebrate the public arts.

Construction. The building is nearly finished, although there are some remaining problems. One is that there is only one heat vent to warm the entire new first floor corridor and there is a significant temperature drop between the circulation area and the hallway outside. The architects are aware of the issue and are studying how to resolve it. For now, you will see a sheet to block some of the cold air hanging over the doorway!

We will be closed one more partial day hoping to resolve the boiler installation. We closed for a day before the holidays, and will close this Friday at 1:00. Power should be off from 1-5 on Friday and all staff will have a half day holiday.

Patio furniture has been ordered and the county is looking for ways to secure these items. Benches with dividers to discourage sleeping, trash receptacles, and small tables will be installed soon. Installers will work around the pavers. We are also ordering work cubicles for staff. When budget was a concern, we opted not to replace them until we had a better idea of what we needed. We also ordered more chairs for the computer area, some additional Heritage Room equipment, new copiers, and furnished an office that had not been completed. We are also ordering equipment for our digital media lab in the coming weeks. Any remaining funds will be spent on materials. Our 2011 SPLOST for materials will not begin until July 1.

Branch Locations. Officials from the American Library Association's American Dream program visited the Pinewoods Library and were very impressed with the quality and quantity of programs offered. Aida Quinones, branch manager, was invited to attend the South Carolina Library Association meetings and to discuss how we have used our 3 American Dream grants to support the growth of that program. Students from the UGA College of Education [and other programs!] continue to provide tutorial support throughout the year for students in grades 3-high school Winterville has a very active program and an extremely active Friends support group. The Friends operate a store across the street from the library featuring used books, but another highlight is that they sponsor musical events on the lawn as well. This year in conjunction with the Marigold Festival, the Friends will be offering several events to celebrate the Library's 40th birthday. Originally funded by proceeds from the Marigold Festival, the little library has grown to be about the twice the original size. Some of the librarians over the years will be riding in the library's float during the Festival. The Winterville Library was the first construction project I worked on for ARLS in 1973-74—it has grown tremendously! We started 3 days a week using volunteer staff. When we moved to an automated system in 1987, we expanded hours and staff followed by a grant from Rep. Louie Clark to expand the building.

When people ask me why we don't have a downtown branch, my response is, "We do!" The Lay Park Community Resource Center is open 20 hours per week on the third floor of the Center. We offer a targeted special collection and computer service. East Athens Community Resource Center is similar in size and scope. While limited, we can offer PINES services and people are able to pick up holds at these locations. Most of our services are targeted to children, and we're fortunate to again have UGA student volunteers working with the kids after school.

Personnel. We lost our reference head this fall to a better paying librarian post in Forsyth County after a short time will replace her with a part-time reference librarian. We also lost a full-time children's assistant to a school district in January, and we will replace her; interviews are on-going. Several other positions have turned over as students have graduated, but it has been fairly stable. My on-going concern and hesitation in filling positions is the cost of health insurance which has been creeping upwards for the past several years. Our self-check units have freed up staff to work more with the public and that has enabled us to reduce the number [through attrition] of staff positions. This past year has been one of staffing studies, adjustments in schedules, reassignments, and change in responsibility. Now with a solid year of experience, we can see the plan is working!

Happy New Year! ksa

Chairman Dennis Hopper called the meeting to order at 4:03 p.m. Trustees present were: Svea Bogue; Erin Boydstun; Sean Boyle; Julie Darnell; Wally Eberhard; John Gaither, Janet Geddis, Craig Pascoe, and Chip Woods. New member Theresa Cullen was also present, and John Timmons was welcomed back onto the Board. Diane Adams, Linda Dodson, Linda Jones, and Bill Prokasy were absent. Staff members present were: Kathryn Ames; Donna Brumby, Trudi Green, Mamie Simonds, and Joy Ovington (who recorded the Minutes).

After the call to order, the Minutes of the October 8, 2013 meeting were reviewed and unanimously approved (Moved by Ms. Bogue and Seconded by Ms. Boydstun). The Agenda was then adopted unanimously (Moved by Ms. Bogue and Seconded by Ms. Darnell).

There was no Public Comment.

Staff Report: A staff report was given by two ukulele players on staff: Children's Department Assistant Rebecca Ballard and Natalie Wright who works in Web Design and the Reference Desk. They were awarded one of the ACCL Mini-Grants to purchase ukuleles for patrons to check-out and develop a music program surrounding them. They described the "Make Music with Your Library!" grant and the instrument as they passed it around the room with the publicity booklet—they played a tune, and went into detail about how patrons will benefit from the new program. Assistant Director for Regional Services Donna Brumby then discussed breakdowns of the Customer Satisfaction Survey Results. There were 487 responses, all were substantially positive. There was discussion about cell phones being a patron concern (which are treated as Noise under the present policy).

Financial Report: Business Office Manager Mamie Simonds presented the 2nd Qtr FY14 ACCL Financial Report. She stated that we should be at around 50% revenues and expenditures. We are at 48.30% revenues and 44.41% expenditures at this time. Fines and Fees are low. Ms. Simonds stated that it may be due to the fact that the Debt Collection service, Unique Management, is not being used as much due to Regional Budget cuts. Electricity and water utilities are high, and Ms. Simonds stressed that they will be allowing for that in future budget proposals. Passport revenues are at $15,472.00 and the Library Store is showing a net profit of $1,355.81. Also, Meeting Room revenues are high compared to the budgeted figure. Ms. Simonds stated that meeting rooms were seen as successful, and the internal controls in place for payment procedures are working well at this time.

Committee Reports La da Venis

. Winterville - Diane Adams was absent therefore no report available.

. Public Relations Committee – Wally Eberhard reported discussion of plans regarding a permanent Honor Roll Wall Plaque that will have all Board Members, etc., on it. He and Mrs. Ames have received cost estimates. There are challenges in finding the accurate names of all people who served in the 1940s.

. Endowment Update – Financial advisors Joe Frierson, Jr., and Meg Parker of Merrill Lynch passed out reports and discussed the investment profiles Goals and Risk Profile, given it started late Spring 2012. They are working with the investment committee of the Endowment Board (Ms Bogue & Ms Adams are liaisons to that Board) to produce sufficient cashflow to meet budgetary needs. Projected income this year is a 4.5% cashflow return on investments which is acceptable per policy statements.

. Policy Committee – [Meeting Rooms, Exhibits and Displays] Svea Bogue will have a report in April.

Page Two Athens-Clarke County Library January 14, 2014

. Building and Grounds –Mr. Gaither reported the committee met in December; the Athens Sports Hall of Fame display may not to be appropriate adornment for the library wall though they reached a cautious consensus and approved it be hung. Mrs. Ames identified an area to the right of the elevator--a 4'X8' display might be well-lit there. All other public space entities, declined, and so ACCL is the best place for it to honor role models in the community. Discussion ensured regarding whether or not ACCL has final say on the design though not proposing any sort of contract. There was a Motion to accept the committee's recommendation (Moved by Mr. Gaither and Seconded by Mr. Timmons). A vote was taken and two of those present opposed (Bogue & Cullen), so the motion passed for an Approval.

Director's Report: Mrs. Ames discussed the RFP for internet services for eRate, a 90% discount on what we have, so it will be faster. There were proposals from other counties with half being good and half marginal. A representative from the State Library is coming to help evaluate proposals. Note that filtering is not included, and there will be a cost for that. The building will close at 1 pm the following Friday to finish the work on the boiler. The chilly temps in the Circulation area are being examined. Mrs. Ames announced that she will be officially retiring September 30th, 2014, after 41 years. The current National Leadership Grant expires then.

Unfinished Business

Public Art—Mrs. Ames gave an update on the artists who are doing the mural along Baxter (Nick Napoletano) and the sculpture on the heli-pad by the bus-stop (Robert Clements). The PR Specialist is working on a brochure for the works which were described as eye-catching, and installation work will begin the end of February, then the Public Arts Committee and FOL will do an unveiling event.

New Business

Ms. Simonds presented the FY15 ACCL Budget Proposal for the Athens-Clarke County Board of Commission. Ms. Simonds stated that we will be asking for a 4.64% increase made up of the following: Increasing the price of a copy from .10 cents to .15 cents per copy in order to generate $7,000 in future revenue increases. A two-year tiered system of wage increase to get all part-time staff under $8.50 per hour to $8.50/hour this year, and $9/hour next year. Also, this budget proposal includes a 2% increase for all other staff. A mandatory increase in GHI from $843/month to $943/month, as well as an increase in TRS from 12.28 to 13.15% employers share will be added. Also the budget requests $25,425 in electricity and $3318.75 in water due to the increased size of the building after construction. Also, $1500 for staff training will be added as an incentive to staff. There was a Motion to accept the budget (Moved by Mr. Timmons and Seconded by Mr. Eberhard)--unanimously approved. Also, a list of Committee assignments was discussed; Mr. Timmons was appointed to the Regional Board.

Announcements:

Hot Dog Day at the Legislature plans were made for January 27th. Mrs. Ames encouraged that one never knows what will make impressions on the lawmakers, so all were encouraged to attend and meet with people who can help draw funding toward the library. Bill Prokasy will lead the Search Committee to find the next ACCL Director.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:21 pm (Moved by Ms. Bogue, seconded by Mr. Gaither).

Next Meeting is April 8, 2014, at 4:00 pm in the Athens-Clarke County Board Room.

Libraries and the Impact of Community Sustainability

- ❖ In 2011, a publiclibrariesonline.org article listed 25 reasons why libraries are the most important places in town. One aspect is sustainability, "As key municipal agencies, and focal points for community education, libraries are major players in creating livable, environmentally friendly cities and towns. The Urban Libraries Council released a report detailing the unique ways in which libraries can further sustainability at the local level. Beyond ensuring that library construction projects consider environmental impact, libraries can take a lead in supporting local foods and artisans, like the Peabody (Mass.) Institute Library's (PIL) partnering with local businesses to pioneer a farmers' market in their courtyard, or the Richmond (Calif.) Public Library's (RPL) seed lending library which "nurtures locally-adapted plant varieties, and fosters community resilience, self-reliance and a culture of sharing." (Richmond Public Library, "Richmond Grows Seed Lending Library," accessed June 15, 2011)
- Sustainability Community = a community that is economically, environmentally, and socially healthy and resilient. It meets challenges through integrated solutions and is focused on both the present and future. Libraries can work hand-in-hand with community government and agencies to provide education and resources that promote active, organized, and informed citizenship.
- In Athens, UGA has instituted many wonderful sustainable practices such as water bottle filling stations. Also seen in many airports, the water filling stations encourage the disuse of plastic water bottles, saves money, and decreases energy waste and emissions.

The American Library Association defines three areas where libraries can help build sustainable communities: Economy, Ecology, and Equity http://tinyurl.com/l9oneky

Director's Report April 8, 2014

January-April is traditionally when we focus on legislative issues. This year was far less productive than usual.

- A revised funding formula to begin on July 1, 2014, was placed on hold by the Senate until the next session. We know that the formula as it exists for FY14 could not be maintained without some funding reductions in the System Services Grant. The "new" funding formula would also have included reductions in this grant program which pays for courier, insurance, summer reading, cataloging, etc. GPLS is working with the Governor's Office of Planning and Budget to determine how this will be implemented for the coming fiscal year. Once we have some actual budget figures to use in budgeting, the Board will have some decisions to make.
- No funding was approved for the purchase of materials. We have seen our budget shrink from a high of 65 cents per capita, to 20 cents, to 7 cents and now to zero. This is going to be an extremely tight year for all of our libraries. I am most thankful for the support of our Friends groups who have continued to be very generous in their efforts to help us raise funds for this purpose. [And of course, SPLOST funding in Clarke County continues to enable us to purchase new books and services. The new fiscal year will see us adding several new databases including Xinio, a periodical subscription service with magazines we had not previously been able to offer. This will be a one-year trial to evaluate how many people will read magazines online rather in traditional formats.]
- Construction. This year, ARLS has no construction projects. Four projects from a list of 12 were funded. The construction list contains approximately 44 projects including a proposed expansion of the Bogart Library.
- MRR—computers. Two million dollars was approved for library computer equipment statewide. This is an expansion of this current year's computer projects, and is most welcome. As you know, our former operating system, XP, is no longer supported, and we have encouraged all to move to Windows 8, Firefox or Chrome.
- MRR for library repair. $1.6 million remained from a library project in Canton.
 These funds were reallocated to MRR and will be used to support infrastructure repair, roofs, and HVAC units only. We are waiting for approval for the Oconee HVAC.
- HB490 will help libraries. Under this bill, the definition of a part-time employee would be expanded to those working less than 30 hours. Libraries would be able to hire part-time employees for up to 29 hours per week. Teacher's Retirement and Social Security employer's share contributions would be required--local systems must have the funding for the additional hours and for benefit costs, so adding hours is not automatic.

The quarter involved many meetings with Greg Deal, Karen Douglas, Kurt Zeiger from GPLS and vendors as we met to determine which broadband provider would best meet our needs within our budget. After many meetings, vendor presentations, analysis of bids, we have selected Windstream. 80% of the cost of this service will be provided through the Universal Service Act grant through the e-rate program which bases grants on the percentage of school lunch program eligibility. The remaining balance will be covered by GPLS. Installation of fiber optic capability will be completed where possible and this will enable us to meet more demand. Some locations must be leased from A T and T and we do not know how the upgrades will be handled. Greg and Karen spent many hours analyzing services, costs, and benefits for our patrons. We're very fortunate to have them with us.

All libraries in the region will see much improved bandwidth capacity. This has been greatly needed and we will transition from T-1 lines to a fiber optic system with much improved capacity. The deadline for this transition is July 1, but we'll see some modifications prior to that date. This involves a lot of physical touches to our equipment, and the entire IT work group will be on the road to change over equipment. Once done, we hope you will notice faster, better service!

We also hope to have our digital media center up and running by July 1. Much of the equipment has been ordered and staff will test and get it installed in coming months. We will need to consider specific policies for use of this center and for the 3-D printer we will be adding to our equipment list.

Personnel continues to be a rapidly changing situation. We have had two major vacancies for branch managers—one in Oconee and one in Madison Counties. Madison County has now been filled with the ripple effect that we now have the head of our Children's Program open. Kim James, children's librarian in Athens, has accepted the Manager position in Madison County. [I think it's a good thing that we are developing leadership potential among our staff.] We also have several part-time positions open and anticipate the possibility of several other full-time openings before the end of summer.

This has been a busy quarter for programming and activities and the Athens Friends were right in the center of those activities. Last week, the dress rehearsal for Oklahoma was a fund raiser for the Friends; they are continuing to sponsor authors and poets. The book sale was quite successful!

Our mini-grant program has several interesting proposals. Currently, the Young Adult group is sponsoring a series called The Curiosity Shop and the children's staff is expanding their ukulele programs.

The Dust Bowl is the latest NEH/ALA sponsored exhibition that will be coming in early 2015. Tammy Gerson is coordinating that exhibit and lecture program.

The Muslim Journey, another ALA/NEH series is being offered in Athens and Watkinsville and is an example of cultural diversity.

Madeline Darnell and I presented a program on our Boomer Project at the Public Library Association meetings in Indianapolis in March. Over 200 people attended and we had excellent feedback, including a request to submit a chapter for a book on services for boomers. It was an excellent conference, we met many people who are doing interesting things in adult services.

No word yet on the Athens budget proposal. That usually arrives in early May!

Purpose

Public art serves to boost the quality of local life, increase arts education and arts industry, and establish a distinct sense of place. It contributes to the livability of our area and enriches our daily lives.

The Athens Cultural Affairs Commission works to foster the development and enjoyment of the cultural arts in collaboration with the Athens Clarke Co. community. Mural by Mick Napoletano

The inspiration for this work originated from watching the foot traffic in front of the library and the many students that traverse the sidewalk to either catch the bus or visit the library after school.

As the library's structure is set back from the road and its façade is partially shrouded by the landscaping along the sidewalk, I thought it was important for the Library to have visible, legible signage that would clearly highlight its location. It is included in the mural serve as a reflection of the library's function within the community while simultaneously welcoming all who wish to use the library as a resource.

The panels were cut, drilled, and beveled before the surface was painted. The panels were sanded with 100- grit sandpaper and cleaned with rubbing alcohol. One liberal coat of Sherwin Williams DTM Bonding Primer was applied to the surface. The design was then transferred onto the panels. Two to four coats of Acrylic Paint were applied until maximum color body and strength were achieved. Once the paint was completely dry, Exterior Varnish was applied to protect the mural.

Sculpture by Robert Clements

1 - What do you think the value of public art is?

To mark, to celebrate the events, places, and heroes that are important to a community.

2. What was your inspiration for this piece?

My years of using the library, to, as Garrison Keillor says, "find answers to life's important questions" there, and opening up my children's minds to the world of the imagination by taking them to the Library and Bookmobile (and keeping track of the hundreds of books they took out).

3. Please give a brief description of your process.

Cutting the forms from 1/4" steel, assembling them to fit them together, then disassembling them prior to their being powdercoated and installed. The sculpture, entitled "The Muse of Learning," will stand 15 feet high.

Robert Clements taught art at the University of Georgia for 25 years then retired to make art full-time. At UGA, he won the university's highest awards for his teaching and research. He has authored multiple publications and has overseen arts grants. His commissioned sculptures can be seen in Atlanta, Colorado and California.

Next Meeting is October 14, 2014, at 4:00 pm in the Athens-Clarke County Board Room.

POLICY COMMITTEE ATHENS-CLARKE COUNTY LIBRARY BOARD DRAFT Minutes, September 25, 2014 Meeting Athens-Clarke County Library Board Room

Policy Committee Chairperson Svea Bogue called the meeting to order at 4:00 p.m. Trustees present were Svea Bogue, Craig Pascoe, John Timmons, Chip Woods, and Regional Board Chairperson Dennis Hopper. Staffperson present was Kathryn Ames.

1. Digital Media Center Policy was approved with minor changes and will be sent to the full Board.

2. Heritage Room Policy -

There was some discussion about the Local Author Shelf, and it was determined that local authors should be encouraged to donate copies of their works to be located in the Heritage Room as an archival copy. The copy would not circulate.

There was also discussion about gifts to the collection. It was felt that gifts should be handled in the same way as other donations to the library system and subject to the same requirements.

Ms. Bogue requested that minutes of the Endowment meetings be a priority in digitization. Items that were written or created during the Revolutionary or Civil War periods or anything of significant monetary value, and determined to be surplus, should come before the Library Board prior to de-accession or sale.

- 3. Collection Management Policy will also be sent to the full board with a few minor changes.
- 4. Citizen's Request for Reconsideration. This form was approved for Board Vote.

Kathryn Ames will get changes made and sent out to the full board prior to the Oct. 14 ACCL Board meeting.

The meeting was adjourned at 4:40 pm.

Next week is National Friends of the Library Week! I cannot say enough about our many Friends of the Library organizations across our region that have been so supportive and enthusiastic about our events and in creating opportunities for our communities to meet authors, buy books, or participate in volunteerism. We have had some exciting programs with authors this year thanks to the Friends and we're about to start developing Georgia author interviews this week with author Terry Kay being the inaugural participant. All interviews will be archived on the Reflecting Learning Sharing webpage.

I had the opportunity to meet with a small group from the Chapel Hill Chamber of Commerce tour of Athens recently to discuss library service, community engagement, and funding. We have much in common with them! The Orange County Library from Hillsborough and the Chapel Hill Public Library have many of the same demographics in a larger geographic area. They are striving to keep up with technology and have used consultants from some of the universities in the area to help build their capacity.

It was interesting that they saw the challenges of the annual operational and personnel budgets are an essential part of their Strategic Plan, much as we do! Some of their metrics are far below ours [circulation, visits, programming] and they are trying to build these figures. Orange County may have more community partners than ARLS, but it may depend on the definition of a partner.

We discussed the Pinewoods project—something they were trying to establish for the coming year. There was not time to visit that location, but they were impressed with the statistics and activity. They are also working on customer service, staff development, and making sure they have inviting and functional facilities. I asked a lot about their outreach activities—services that extend beyond library walls. Their solutions will be to partner with other agencies already in rural areas particularly Aging, Health, Emergency Management and Planning to collaborate.

Update on lighting issue. As you may know, as county electricians were replacing burned out light bulbs in the computer area, they noticed that some of the boxes housing the lights were burned. Further investigation indicated that these hard plastic boxes were not what was specified and were melting under the heat. The county's electrician Keith obtained sample LED lights to install to evaluate the brightness and effectiveness of the sample bulbs which burn much cooler than the previous ones. As a result, we plan to convert all of the lights in the vaulted ceilings and the stairways to LED. The SPLOST office is negotiating the details of who is responsible for the installation of the plastic box and who will pay for the upgrade.

Update on electric car charging units. Andrew Sanders tells me that the units will be installed in February 2015. He is also seeking additional grant funding to publicize availability.

Many changes have been taking place. Upon approval of the Digital Media Lab policies, we will be ready to open those doors. Natalie Wright who does our webpages will also assume responsibility for providing training, assistance and programming for this area. We hope to also have staff assistance every weekend. One of our first efforts will be a film festival of locally made films—we have done this in the past, but now have editing equipment available.

Priscilla Lewis, who was Circulation Librarian, has moved to Young Adult Librarian and will be coordinating the Teen program. Her first order of business is to coordinate a Zombie Night Out. The Teen Advisory Board is creating new programs and ideas. We have a couple more changes coming. With Priscilla leaving circulation, we are now interviewing for a new circulation department manager and we will be hiring a new outreach librarian as well. Alfreda Fleming retired after 28 years after doing a multitude of different jobs ranging from bookmobile to Heritage Room to Purchasing—my fondest memory of her was pre-computer typing catalog cards on the IBM Memory Typewriter. Laura Carter plans to retire at the end of the year and will return as a volunteer for special programs in the Heritage Room; Diane Williams who has handled fiction collection development since 1986 retires in December; and Clare Auwarter will retire as the liaison to the Friends as well. I have asked Donna Brumby to move to regional collection development to facilitate our new SPLOST funds, digital resources, and Overdrive. I expect the new director will work more closely with the Friends next year—I delegated this to Clare when we began building planning and construction.

We finished our federal grant in September with the completion of a Best Practices Manual about the program. The 100 page resource outlines the grant, the technology approaches we used, and details each program offered. What was unusual about this grant project was that all programs were developed by our Advisory Board. We used a variety of technology programs, and tried to involve live audiences, but by far, the most popular programs were the archived major annual events. Over 10,000 people viewed the George Bugg interview with his antique cars.

GPLS has made some decisions in regard to the future of the Talking Book Center. They plan to have this library system serve all of Northeast Georgia including Gwinnett County to Augusta and north to the state line. This will become entire outreach involving a lot of travel to outlying counties to "sell" the service and train potential service providers about the program. This decision was in response to our "four corners" plan and it's very close to the original proposal. It would allow Athens, Rome, Bainbridge and Macon to maintain service centers for the blind and physically disabled. My goal in forging this partnership was to maintain service to our users.

We have been fortunate to receive several grants. STEM—Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics grants were provided on a per capita basis to purchase books for all ages this Fall. Every library in the region received the benefits of this grant and has new books on their shelves. We also received funding for computer replacements for each location. These were ordered this week and should be arriving soon. Finally, the broadband conversion to Windstream is nearly complete. All libraries have upgraded capacity except Pinewoods where it is not possible to add a fiber connection. We have great demand there for more capacity, but cannot add it given the restrictions of the lot location, underground lines, and other connectivity.

Annual report: We will have more details as we work with the Annual Report statistics. You have attached a breakdown of some of the more important figures. Our patron registration decreased by about 30% because PINES requires re-registration every 2 years. The average circulation per card holder is 30.6 items. Computer use per capita is 2.5 per capita—above the state average. Library visits per capita is 5.64; this is due to the large number of programs [classes and special events for teens, children, adults] the library offers. In the coming months, we will be kicking off our 1000 Books Before Kindergarten, targeting preschoolers and their parents. The Friends of the Athens Library have earmarked $10,000 for programs and new materials to highlight this campaign, and the State of Georgia will provide booklogs for parents to record the books they read. It sounds like a lot, but if one reads 3 picture books per night, they would achieve 1000 books in less than a year! Also, our long-awaited manipulative wall will be installed in December. Since the beginning of the construction project, a wall of special preschool activities were planned for the fall along the outside of the storyhour area. After waiting for other projects to finish and hiring a new children's librarian, we will now have a wave wall with special activities installed.

We are continuing with Prime Time, a family literacy program for Hispanic families in the area. Dr. Denise Davilla and Max Vasquez continue to coordinate this program that models reading activities for children and parents. Conducted in English and Spanish, the program takes place in the evening and includes younger siblings as well. The children's team has been invaluable in coordinating transportation, the consultants, and food. We encourage book selection as a part of the process and all families have library cards.

On a regional level, we have been working to get the Bogart Library Building Program completed for a Nov. 1 submittal. That was approved yesterday at the Oconee Board meeting. The Lavonia Library renovation is moving along—the fascia was replaced, the outside has been stained and new concrete has been installed to update the look of the 1911 facility. The next step is to work on the interior. Funds for this upgrade were provided by the City of Lavonia and state MRR funds. Other MRR projects included new HVAC in Winterville, a new ramp at Pinewoods, and the roofing in Athens. We are also completing Royston and Danielsville construction projects. Athens just had the one-year warranty walk-through with the architect, contractor and SPLOST manager.

The Fall Library Directors' Meeting was held here in Athens along with the PINES meetings. Emphasis was on the new audit requirement that libraries verify eligibility of all contractors who earn more than $2500. We have been using e-verify for all staff, but now will need to document all contractors as well. Legislatively, we hope to push for $1 per capita book funds and to continue MRR for repairs as well as for Computers. Bogart is #7 on the construction list and we hope to have that project underway this coming year.

Highlights of 2014

The Athens-Clarke County Library continues to evolve to meet the changing needs of Athens-Clarke County residents for information and technology. In Fiscal Year 2014, the Library added several new programs and services, all of which have been successful. Here are a few highlights of the year.

Public Art

The Library worked with the Athens Cultural Affairs Commission to bring two pieces of public art to the main branch this year: a colorful mural on a retaining wall by Nick Napoletano and a 15-foot metal sculpture, The Muse of Learning, by Bob Clements. These two pieces were installed in early 2014 and dedicated at Family Fun Day in May 2014.

National Medal Finalist

The Library was one of only 30 finalists across the country for the U.S. Institute of Museum of Library Services 2014 National Medal for Library and Museum Service, the nation's highest honor for museums and libraries. The Library did not win, but it was the only Georgia institution on the list of finalists and received a tremendous outpouring of community support during the IMLS's Share Your Story social media campaign.

Make Music at Your Library

Based on the success of Sunshine Strummers, a 6-week ukulele class for children ages 5-10 funded by a grant from Athfest Educates, the library started a ukulele lending program for adults. Adult patrons can now check out a ukulele for up to two weeks with up to two renewals from the library. Tutorial videos and sheet music are available on the library's website, and music meet-ups at the library are planned for the future.

Adult Services

The Library received a grant from the National Endowment for Humanities and the American Library Association for the Let's Talk About It: Muslim Journeys discussion series. This series of programming explored Muslim people, places, history, faith and cultures, and included five scholar-led book discussions, a concert of Arabic music, film screenings and workshops on Turkish paper marbling and baklava.

Heritage Room

The Heritage Room, which houses the Library's local history and genealogy collections, has also added programming this year. From serving as a viewing site for genealogy webinars and starting a new Local History Book Club to hosting southern authors the new Books & Bites series, the Heritage Room offers attractive programming for genealogy researchers and history buffs. In the spring, the Heritage Room received a $2,946.49 grant from the Watson-Brown Foundation Junior Board, which will go toward digitizing and cataloging the Heritage Room's collections. In the summer of 2014, the Heritage Room added a state-of-the-art digital overhead book scanner, the Indus 9000, through patron donations.

Children's Services

Together, the five branches of the Athens-Clarke County Library presented 1,475 children's programs with 45,743 children attending. Circulation of children's materials totaled 242,066, which is more than 17% of all circulation for the Athens-Clarke County Library! The main branch received a Georgia Humanities Council grant for a bilingual Spanish family reading program called Prime Time. The 6-week program introduces Spanish-speaking children ages 6-10 and their entire family, including parents, guardians and younger siblings, to the love of reading. During each session, younger siblings enjoy a special storytime while parents and guardians spend time with the older children talking about books and participating in activities with the intent of empowering parents to help their children improve reading skills. The program touched the lives an average 30 to 40 people each week in two six-week programs; many of whom are now regular library users!

Teen Services

In FY 2014, the Teen Services department offered dynamic new programs drawing many teens to the library. Open Chess Play, a partnership with the local Chess and Community Conference, brings large groups of kids ages 7-18 to the Library every Monday afternoon as they learn new skills. The department also formed a Teen ory Council, comprised of young patrons who provide feedback on materials and programs, and created Curiosity Shop, a series of educational programs in partnership with local businesses. Some of the Curiosity Shop topics included creating fragrances, screen printing, drawing comics, music programming and more. The department also hosts monthly afterhours programs on everything from Japanese culture to a murder mystery dinner.

Reflecting, Sharing, Learning

This year, The Boomers: Reflecting, Sharing, Learning program changed its name to Reflecting, Sharing, Learning as the events offered by this IMLS-grant-funded program appeal to adults of all ages, not just baby boomers. New this year, Reflecting, Sharing, Learning broadened its broadcast capabilities—monthly programs can now be viewed live online from smart phones and tablets in addition to personal computers. The program also changed its web address to rslathens.org.

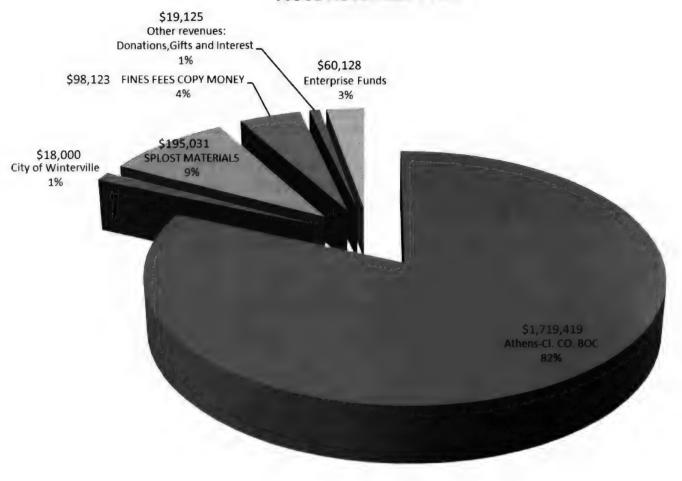

Technical Services

In FY 2014, the Library System added downloadable digital magazines through the Zinio application. With Zinio, patrons can download as many free digital magazines as they would like, with no holds required and no expiration dates. The Library offers nearly 60 titles, and the latest issue is always available! The Library's Technical Services department added new classes to their regular lineup of free computer classes, including a iPad basics class, Windows 8.1 and Zinio.

Briefing on New Gun Law, HB 60, Training for ACCL Staff - August 29, 2014

Athens-Clarke County Police Officer Tim Scott addressed staff concerning Georgia's new gun law, House Bill 60. Staff from Athens-Clarke County libraries, Watkinsville and Bogart libraries; and the Oglethorpe County Library attended.

Officer Scott noted that the new law, known as both the "carry everywhere law" and the "safe carry protection act," extends the rights of where law abiding citizens aged 18 and older can carry their legally held and legally owned firearms. While the gun owner must possess a concealed carry permit, law enforcement and other officials are prohibited from asking for it.

The library, as a government-funded facility, is included among buildings which must allow citizens to bring in their legally owned concealed weapons. In order for the library to be exempted from this requirement, the library would have to have security personnel at all library entrances during all open hours.

Library staff submitted questions before the session. The most frequently asked questions revolved around three areas: 1) what should staff do if they see someone with a gun; 2) what should staff do if they see someone with a gun on a desk; 3) what should staff do if they see someone who is acting erratically and may have a gun.

Officer Scott said that the weapon must be secured, such as in a holster or in a pocket, and that a weapon out on a table or desk is not secured. Library staff could ask that patron to secure their weapon(s). He also said he thought that scenario would be "highly unlikely." If staff does see someone with a holstered gun, according to the law, there is nothing they need to do.

Staff was very concerned about their security and that of library patrons. Officer Scott recommended using an alert code to notify staff of a security issue without alarming patrons.

In conclusion, Officer Scott said that if a patron made them feel uncomfortable in any way, regardless of whether they think the person has a gun, they should not hesitate to call 911.

Athens-Clarke County Library Heritage Room Policy

Statement of Purpose

The Heritage Room is a special collections unit of the Athens-Clarke County Library which collects, preserves, organizes, and makes available on a limited basis materials for the purpose of research and/or preservation covering the Athens area, the state of Georgia, and the Southeastern United States. As one of Georgia's larger publicly accessible and non-membership genealogy and local history collections, the Heritage Room is a regional resource. The Heritage Room seeks to serve students of all ages and experience levels in their research into southern, Georgia, and local area history and genealogy.

The Heritage Room maintains three arms of service: reference and research, archives, and programming. Together, these arms support the Athens-Clarke County Library's mission to provide information and resources which address the needs of the community, foster enjoyment and a love of reading, and provide a repository of the history and culture of Athens-Clarke County.

The Heritage Room maintains a variety of textual and microform primary source records, a non-circulating library of secondary sources, and a broad array of web-accessible research databases for the study of genealogy and local history. The Heritage Room staff serves the public on-site as well as remotely through email, mail, telephone and fax inquires.

The Heritage Room Archives preserve and make available unique records of enduring value related specifically to the history of Clarke County's individuals, families, organizations, institutions, and select local government agencies. It also serves as the central repository for the permanent retention of the archival records of the Athens Regional Library System and its branches. Heritage Room Archives seek to document the lived experiences of ordinary Athenians for the purposes of genealogical and historical research. These primary sources include not only textual and special media records—such as maps, photographs, sound recordings, and moving images—but also art and artifacts, rare book collections, manuscripts, architectural drawings, and textiles. Heritage Room staff assists patrons on-site in the Heritage Reading Room, and makes collections web-accessible through finding aids, digital exhibits, and online search tools.

Heritage Room programming serves the public through book discussions and readings, exhibitions, lectures, seminars, tours, webinars and workshops. Through its cultural and educational programming, the Heritage Room helps interpret and highlight its rich collections and provides outreach to the general public.

Acquisitions/Collection Development

Selections Criteria

Materials suitable for the Heritage Room collection must have relevance to Athens-Clarke County (or the distinct City of Athens and Clarke County prior to unification), the state of Georgia, the migration trails into and out of Georgia, and/or the South.

The subject areas include, but are not limited to:

- Business, economic, social, cultural, educational, natural, and transportation history;
- Government and politics, including settlement of the region and armed conflict;
- Geology, archaeology, and geography, and their effects on the history and development of the region.

The "South" is generally defined as the eleven states that seceded from the Union in 1860-1861: South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, North Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee. After Georgia, these states are given the most emphasis within the Heritage Room collection. Certain Border States (i.e. Kentucky, Maryland, and Missouri) are collected less extensively due to their role in the migration periods both in the early part of American history and surrounding the period of the Civil War.

Some Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic states are also collected to cover the colonial and southern migration trails to Georgia and the rest of the South, as are materials about other parts of the United States when the subjects relate to Georgia and/or the South.

High priority subjects for collection include but are not limited to the following topics, listed in no particular order:

- The indigenous peoples who originally settled and lived in the area, with particular emphasis on the territory disputes between the Cherokee and the Creek Indians and Native American genealogy;
- The key position of Georgia in the southern migration and settlement of North America spanning from the Colonial period through the American Revolution and into the early Federal period;
- The important roles played by many citizens and industries of Clarke County during the Civil War;
- Southeastern African-American history, culture, economics, geography, and education to reflect the historically large percentage of African-Americans in the local population.

Acquisitions

Materials will be collected through purchase, gift, or trade from individuals, businesses, and institutions. The Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist reserves the right to refer or reject gift or trade materials of questionable value to the collection.

Additions to the Heritage Room collection will be evaluated based on the criteria listed in the Athens-Clarke County Library System's Resource Collections Management Policy as well as the following selection criteria:

- Permanent value to the collection:
- Relevance of the item to the existing collection;
- Physical characteristics of the item (i.e. size or storage requirements);
- Relative importance in comparison to other works on the same subject.

Materials in a variety of formats are suitable for inclusion in the Heritage Room collection. However, due to limited space, memorabilia, ephemera, published works of fiction, and collections will be purchased or accepted as donations on a limited basis.

Heritage Room staff will regularly and publically solicit donations of records, scrapbooks and other materials from local businesses, clubs, societies, organizations, local schools, etc. in an effort to preserve the history of Athens and Clarke County. The Heritage Room actively attempts to acquire selected local government publications of the Unified Government of Athens-Clarke County, the formerly distinct governments of the City of Athens and Clarke County, the city of Winterville, and their departments.

Donations

All donations and gifts will be evaluated using the same criteria as materials selected for purchase. The Heritage Room will accept donations and gifts with the understanding that it may use them in accordance with its policies and dispose of them as it sees fit.

Items typically accepted as donations but not purchased include but are not limited to:

- Family histories and surname society publications;
- Family records and papers;
- Yearbooks from local schools, colleges, and universities;
- Annuals, minute books, docket books, financial ledgers, and other organizational or business records or papers for local garden, civic, study clubs.

Patrons wishing to donate bibles and copies of bible records will be referred to area genealogical or lineage society for preservation and/or publication.

Patrons wishing to claim tax deductions for donations made to the Heritage Room must have their item(s) or collection(s) appraised at their own expense prior to making their donation. A completed Deed of Gift form must accompany all donations.

Athens Authors Shelf

The Athens Authors Shelf is a non-circulating book collection located in the Heritage Room and includes items not previously addressed in the Acquisitions/Collections Development section of this document. Additions to the collection must be made by donation from the author, who must meet one of the following qualifications:

- Born in Athens-Clarke County; or
- Lived in Athens-Clarke County for at least ten years; or
- Wrote the book while living in Athens-Clarke County.

Books published to fulfill the requirement for an advanced university degree are not eligible. No public funds are to be used to acquire books for the Athens Authors Shelf.

Items Placed in Custody of the Heritage Room

Under exceptional circumstances and with the approval of the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist, in consultation with the Library Director, materials not owned by the Heritage Room may be kept in the collection for research or other purposes. Such items will require a completed Deed of Deposit form granting permission by the owning entity to allow the Heritage Room to have physical possession of the item(s) on a temporary basis while the owning entity retains ownership and copyright.

Materials Review Policy and Procedures

Patrons who request the reconsideration of materials in the Heritage Room should follow the procedures outlined in the Challenged Materials section of the Athens-Clarke County Library policy.

Collection Maintenance

In general, the Heritage Room follows the practices outlined in the Collection Maintenance section of the Athens Regional Library System's Resources Collections Management Policy. Most materials in the Heritage Room are collected or accepted for permanent retention, so the collection is typically not weeded.

Deaccessioning is the process of removing permanently from the archival collections accessioned materials that are duplicated, fail to meet collection criteria or are otherwise inappropriate to the collection. The deaccessioning process shall be cautious, deliberate and completed with the utmost integrity.

Heritage Room resources are weeded or deaccessioned from the collection if content, condition, or lack of patron demand limits further use. With the removal of an item from its collection, the Heritage Room will do its utmost to secure a new home for the deaccessioned material, and reserves the right to sell discarded resources to benefit the Heritage Room or to otherwise dispose of items no longer suitable for its collections.

Items dating from 1865 and earlier or items appraised at a value of $10,000 or greater must be presented to the Board for approval prior to being weeded or deaccessioned.

Access

Patrons must register with the Heritage Room upon their initial visit, and sign in and out of the room on all subsequent visits. A PINES card is not required to use the Heritage Room. Patrons are allowed to bring laptop computers, tablet computers, and personal scanners into the Heritage Room. As long as a flash is not used, digital cameras and cell phone cameras are also permitted.

Patrons in the Heritage Room have access to the books, periodicals, microforms, vertical file records, and databases available.

The Heritage Room collection includes materials in a variety of formats and therefore provides the technology and software necessary to access these formats, including but not limited to computers with database access, VHS players, compact disc and cassette tape players, slide carousels and projectors, microform readers, printers, photocopiers, and scanners. Due to the limited availability of equipment and high demand for their use, the Library reserves the right to limit individual equipment sessions. Internet access in the Heritage Room is for genealogical and/or historical research only. Abuse of this privilege may result in removal from the Heritage Room and possibly the Athens-Clarke County Library.

Registered Heritage Room patrons who wish to access materials held in the Vault must fill out both a Vault Materials Use form and a Call Slip for each item they request. Requests must be made at least 24 hours in advance. Materials will be brought into the Heritage Reading Room for the patron to access.

Security

Due to the nature of the Heritage Room collection, essential security restrictions are in place. Materials from the Heritage Room collection may only be accessed during hours the Heritage Room is open and staffed. Heritage Room books will bear a distinguishing "GR"—for "Georgia Room"—before the call number. The collection does not circulate.

Patrons are required to leave any bags and other personal belongings in the lockers near the entrance to the Heritage Room. Lockers are provided as a courtesy to Heritage Room patrons only, and should be emptied at the conclusion of the patron's visit. Items may not be stored in lockers overnight. Heritage Room lockers will be regularly checked, and personal items left at the end of the day will be moved to Lost & Found or disposed of as necessary.

If materials belonging to the Heritage Room cannot be located in either the Heritage Room or Athens-Clarke County Library building, and it is determined they have not been misfiled or misplaced, the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist or the Director of the Athens-Clarke County Library will notify the Athens-Clarke County Police Department.

Access to the Vault is by key and only regularly scheduled, trained Heritage Room staff, the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist, the Information Services Manager, the Director of the Athens-Clarke County Library, and the Athens-Clarke County Library Administrative Assistant have access to the key for the Vault. A box-level inventory of the Vault will be conducted annually.

Research Requests

Research requests are defined as any questions requiring that are not ready reference, including but not limited to multi-part questions and those involving vague or uncertain information. Patrons making such requests will be charged a research fee. Written research requests received via mail, fax, or email will be answered as time permits at the rates listed in the Fines/Fees Schedule of the Athens-Clarke County Library Policy Manual. Research fees are non-refundable. Due to the specialized nature of research requests, all requests must be made in writing. Patrons who phone with research requests will be provided with the Library's email and/or mailing address to submit their questions in writing.

The results of each commissioned research request will include at least one of the following: (1) up to 12 photocopies for most orders with a citation of the source, or (2) a report of the search, indicating all sources searched if no information is located, or (3) when applicable, a listing of suggested sources for additional research.

Ready reference questions will be answered by phone, in person, or by email at no charge.

The Heritage Room staff welcomes and encourages all patrons to use the collection while also acknowledging limitations to collection availability and staff time. An effort will be made to teach patrons to use the collection and provide self-help materials such as indexes, finding aids, software and hardware instructions, and information about courses, programs, organizations, or individuals specializing in relevant areas of study.

Loans

Materials may not be removed from the Heritage Room without the authorization of the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist, the Assistant Director, or the Director. Materials may be made available for Interlibrary Loan with an "In-Library Use Only" stipulation at the discretion of the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist. Fragile materials will not be loaned due to risk of further deterioration.

Special permission may be granted by the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist or the Director of the Athens-Clarke County Library for Heritage Room materials to be used by another institution for exhibition or other purposes. A written loan agreement defining the terms of the loan will be signed by the two organizations prior to the removal of any materials from the Heritage Room.

Facilities

The Heritage Meeting Room is available to the public with a reservation during the hours the Heritage Room is open. Please see the Public Use of Meeting Rooms Policy for more information.

The Heritage Room Vault contains rare, original, fragile, and/or valuable processed materials. Items are stored in the Vault at the discretion of the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist or the Director of the Athens-Clarke County Library.

The Heritage Storage Room is for accessioned materials awaiting processing. The Heritage Workroom is for the processing of materials from the Storage Room so they can be added to the Vault. Access to the both rooms is for authorized staff and volunteers only, and these rooms will remain locked at all times.

Reproduction and Use

Permission to Publish

The Heritage Room is committed to supporting research, teaching, scholarship, publication, and artistic production involving use of the Library's special collections materials. To remove barriers to such uses, it is not necessary to seek the Library's permission as the owner of the physical work to publish or otherwise use public domain materials from the Heritage Room. This applies whether the use is non-commercial or commercial.

Requests for permission to publish from the small number of collections for which the Athens-

Clarke County Library does own copyright must be in writing and include a full description of the material to be published, citation of where and in what format the material will be published, and any relevant details to the publication. Permission is granted for one use only and is not transferrable to any other person, organization, or entity. Additional uses require additional written requests, and will be considered separately.

Requests for permission to publish should be addressed to:

Heritage Room Librarian
Athens-Clarke County Library
2025 Baxter Street
Athens, Georgia 30606

The Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist reserves the right to refuse to accept a permission to publish request if, in his/her judgment, fulfillment of the request would constitute a violation of copyright law. Further, some library donors have placed restrictions on the use of Heritage Room materials that must be honored. The Heritage Room cannot grant permissions requests for printed works that are still under copyright protection. Similarly, we cannot grant permissions requests for archival or manuscript collections for which we do not hold copyright. It is the sole responsibility of the user or recipient of copies of Heritage Room materials to investigate the copyright status of any given work and to seek and obtain permission where needed prior to any distribution or publication. If the text or image in question is under copyright, permission to publish must be sought from the owners of the rights, typically the creator or the heirs to his or her estate unless covered by the principle of "fair use." Copyright law protects unpublished as well as published materials.

Any use of Heritage Room images or materials is subject to the user or recipient's agreement to indemnify and hold harmless the Athens-Clarke County Library, its officers, employees and agents from and against all suits, claims, actions and expenses. By using these materials, the patron agrees to these responsibilities, including the noted legal protections of the Athens-Clarke County Library. Failure to abide by copyright law or provide proper credit is grounds for the permanent denial of access to the Heritage Room collection of the Athens-Clarke County Library.

How to Cite

The Heritage Room must always be cited as the source of text or images when published or otherwise distributed. In general, Heritage Room materials should be cited as:

Collection name, box #, folder #, Courtesy of the Heritage Room, Athens-Clarke County Library, Athens, Georgia

Please contact the Heritage Room if questions arise concerning the proper citation or description of materials.

Requesting Reproductions/Duplications

It is possible to request photocopies, microfilm and digital images of Heritage Room materials. The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." Reproductions may not be made for or donated to other repositories. If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

The Heritage Room will consider requests for limited reproduction of materials when copying meets all of the criteria:

- can be done without injury to the material
- does not violate donor agreements
- conforms to copyright law

Reproduction requests must be made in advance using the form provided. A flat fee payable to the Athens-Clarke County Heritage Room, plus the costs of reproduction as determined by the needs of the patron, is due upon reproduction request. See the Athens-Clarke County Library Fines/Fees Schedule for more information.

Any fees or other charges associated with the reproduction of illustrative, photographic, or audio materials do not in any way constitute the sale of these images, files, content or their copyrights. Permission to examine materials or to obtain copies does not imply the right to publish or reproduce them, in whole or in part. All rights are retained by the Heritage Room and/or the copyright holder. If copy negatives are made in the reproduction process, all such negatives shall become the property of the Heritage Room of the Athens-Clarke County Library.

Collection Care

Preservation

In an effort to preserve materials in the condition in which they are received, the Heritage Room Vault and Storage Rooms will have an independently adjustable and monitored temperature and humidity controlled environment. As funds are available, archival storage containers will be purchased and used. Heritage Room staff will clean and repair materials that are the property of the Athens-Clarke County Library using standard preservation procedures.

Conservation

Heritage Room materials that require conservation and/or restoration will be sent to professionals as funds are available. A priority list of items needing attention and the prescribed treatment needed will be maintained. Where necessary, Heritage Room staff will provide patrons with duplicates or digital surrogates of fragile or valuable original materials.

Insurance and Appraisal

Items that are rare, valuable, or difficult and/or expensive to replace may require insurance. Important donated materials should be appraised by the donor before donation to the Heritage Room. If no appraisal was completed, an expert approved by the Athens-Clarke County Library's insurance company will provide the evaluation.

Some items may increase in value over time and require reappraisal. This need will be evaluated at the time of the annual inventory, with the Heritage Room Librarian/Archivist making recommendations for the reappraisal of certain items in the collection as warranted.

PROGRESS IN THE MAKING

An Introduction to 3D Printing and Public Policy

How are 3D printers being used in libraries?

With the onset of the digital revolution, the library community assumed a leading role in the effort to help people of all ages build the skills and competencies they need to thrive in a high-tech world. 3D printing expands the frontier of the ongoing digital transformation of our society, and—in keeping with our reputation for digital leadership—library professionals are helping people and communities take advantage of this development. Library 3D printing is empowering people to engage in creative learning, launch business ventures and solve complex health problems.

No. 1 | September 2014

"A once-shuttered warehouse is now a state-of-the-art lab where new workers are mastering the 3D printing that has the potential to revolutionize the way we make almost everything. There's no reason this can't happen in other towns."

—President Barack Obama State of the Union Address February 2013

Using a 3D printer in the Maker Lab at the Allen County Public Library in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, a Boy Scout troop printed resin wheels for its robot team. In Chattanooga, a man used a 3D printer at the public library to create a robotic device that allows his child who was born without arms or legs to eat independently. In Kansas, a high school junior created a functioning prosthetic hand for a nine-year-old family friend using the 3D printer at the Johnson County Public Library.

What are 3D printers capable of?

3D printers have many exciting applications. The most common materials used in 3D printing are ABS (acrylonitrile butadiene styrene) and PLA (polylactic acid) plastic. PLA, ABS and other plastics can be used to create everything from toy figurines to prosthetic limbs to handguns. The objects and structures that can be printed from materials other than plastic are even more varied. A company in Shanghai can print a ten-story house out of quick-dry cement in less than 24 hours; the San Diego-based company Organovo Holdings, Inc. is using 3D printers to create a human liver out of human cells; and this year, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) launched a 3D printer into space to experiment with the creation of spare parts for the International Space Station. 456

What are the legal implications of 3D printing?

3D printers can be used to create both artistic and non-artistic objects. Therefore, understanding the intellectual property issues associated with 3D printing requires us to broaden our focus beyond copyright. We must also consider patent, design patent, trade dress and trade secrets. 3D printing also raises product liability questions. As this technology takes off, a growing number of people will gain the ability to create and market complex and potentially dangerous products.

Inevitably, some 3D-printed products that are brought to market will be faulty and will result in consumer injuries. Librarians should understand who might be held liable for injuries that are sustained by defective products produced by their 3D printers. Three parties could clearly be held liable: 1) The hobbyist/inventor who printed and sold the item; 2) The company that manufactured the 3D printer; 3) The programmer who wrote the code for the product's design.9 Whether or not libraries could themselves be held liable is currently an open question. The courts have yet to interpret product liability in the context of 3D printing. While there is no way of predicting the magnitude of the intellectual property and/or product liability disputes over 3D-printed items that will occur in the future, this uncertainty should not deter us from continuing to use 3D printers in innovative and exciting ways. Libraries everywhere are expanding the creative, entrepreneurial and educational

So, what the heck is 3D printing, anyhow?

In 1983, a young man named Charles Hull had an idea. Hull-who at the time was working for a small firm that made durable coatings for tables using ultraviolet (UV) lampsthought that computer designs of solid objects could be converted into prototypes by fusing together successive layers of curable ultraviolet material. After months of experimentation, Hull pioneered stereolithography: the first 3D printing (or "additive manufacturing") technique. 8 All modern 3D printing techniques still follow the same fundamental process Hull created in 1983. The process begins when computer aided design (CAD) software renders the virtual blueprint of a solid object. A blueprint can be generated from scratch using a modeling program, or by using a camera or a 3D scanner to capture the exact dimensions of an object and convert them into a CAD model. Once CAD software creates an object's blueprint, it divides the object into cross-sections. A 3D printer builds the object layer-by-layer, either by extruding sheets of raw material onto a build platform, or by focusing UV light onto thin sheets of raw material. As the sheets cool, they fuse together to render the final object.

applications of library 3D printing, and the specter of legal action should not discourage librarians from searching for new ones. Additionally, we should not be intimidated by the task of familiarizing ourselves with new areas of intellectual property law. We can use the digital copyright jurisprudence, and, perhaps most importantly, common library practices that have developed since the late 1990s to help ourselves formulate user policies that take these areas of the law into account.

A Model Warning Notice

Did you know that the library community is already thinking about ways to minimize the legal risks of 3D printing? Tomas Lipinski, Dean and Professor at the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee School of Information Studies adapted a library photocopier warning notice to anticipate the intellectual property issues that may result from the 3D printing process. View it here.

What other concerns does 3D printing raise?

The growth of the 3D printing industry has raised a number of questions related to intellectual freedom and individual liberties. To date, most of these questions have been debated in the context of 3D-printed firearms. To what extent should the government limit access to CAD files for firearms and components of firearms? Should an individual have to obtain a license for a firearm he or she builds using a 3D printer? What constitutes a 3D-printed gun? Policymakers have recently begun to consider these sorts of questions.

Despite high-profile debate surrounding 3D-printed guns, the intellectual freedom and individual liberty implications of 3D printing extend far beyond questions of firearm regulation. Scientists have already begun to apply 3D printing to the process of making pharmaceuticals. Lawmakers and the FDA will have to find a way to regulate the chemical uses of 3D printers if these uses become more common. Another danger of the chemical applications of 3D printing is that those engaged in the illicit drug trade will begin to use 3D printers to create narcotics. 3D printers also have the potential to render material that, while legal and unregulated, may not comply with the acceptable use policies of certain libraries. For example, 3D printing has reached the sex toy industry, and schematics to create these products are available online. This raises product safety concerns for consumers and hobbyists. ¹⁰

The big picture: What's the role of libraries as 3D printing takes off?

Given the many policy questions 3D printing gives rise to, libraries will need to do more than provide their patrons with instruction in the basics of printer mechanics and CAD modeling and scanning. There is a growing understanding among library professionals that the library community needs to develop a set of best practices to guide patron printing behavior. There is currently no body of law and little to no jurisprudence that interprets intellectual property, intellectual freedom or product liability concepts in the context of 3D printing. Therefore, in developing any such set of practices, it is in our best interest to think chiefly about what is practicable and consistent with the mission of libraries, and secondarily about what might eventually be held by Congress, the state legislatures or the courts to be outside the bounds of the law.

Tips for library professionals

- Begin to familiarize yourself with the basics of patent and trade dress law.
- Don't be afraid! Develop a user policy that addresses the potential legal risks of 3D printing but—most importantly—encourages patrons to be creative and have fun.
- Communicate with other libraries offering 3D printing services. Share your user policy and discuss emerging applications of your 3D printer(s) with others in the field.
